Video game slot route operator in SC.

Collins is the sole owner of Collins Entertainment, Inc, a conglomerate that owns and operates video games.

In recent years, Collins was most often in the news as he fought and won a series of high-profile legal battles against slot machine giant International Gaming Technology. Collins said IGT promised him an exclusive distributorship to sell its slots in South Carolina, then reneged. A series of juries agreed, and as of Feb. 2004, IGT owed Collins $20 million in damages.

His confrontation with IGT was the climax of a decades-long litigation career that earned him the nickname "Courthouse Collins."
